Catastrophes bring communities together

Australia is going through its climate catastrophe this year. Drought, weather patterns, warming seas have led to much of southern Australia burning and all of us have been impacted by the footage we are witnessing, daily through our news feeds. The images of people huddled on the beaches with terrified children and pets, towns that are hundreds of years old, completely gone and of course the loss of millions of animals. It came home to us in a small way on New Year's Day when we awoke to the smoke reaching Queenstown and turning our day into a kind of eerie dusk.

I spent 30 years living in Australia, a product of a time when Kiwis were almost encouraged to 'get on' by moving over the ditch and my time in Australia was incredibly rewarding and I love Australia and its people. Now, to watch these scenes of NSW, SA and Victoria burning and having to endure states of emergencies as the fires link up creating fire fronts that stretch across state borders is truly heartbreaking.

When it's all over, which is likely still months away, there will be a reckoning and Australia is going to be changed forever. No longer will the casual smiling, fun loving, koala hugging images luring us to Australia with a 'she'll be right mate' theme, be believable to the rest of the world. Australia burning has been the story over the holiday period across the globe and graphically brought home what climate change is capable of.

While the devastation is nowhere near over, Australians and Kiwis are pulling together to help; giving money, goods, their homes and their time for those that have lost everything. This last weekend and through the coming weeks the number of fund-raising events being held in Queenstown and throughout the country will gather pace. From lemonade stands put on by the young ones to elaborate events, to people opening their homes, all in aid of raising money to help our Aussie cousins. To see the number spring up in Queenstown and Wanaka has been such an inspiration. There are thousands and thousands who will come through this catastrophe with nothing and the wildlife is in even worse shape and every dollar raised will be welcome.

It is times like this that the Tasman Sea disappears as the barrier that separates the two countries and we act as 'family' and as a Kiwi who has spent decades in Australia and returned, it's wonderful to witness our communities spirit and generosity and how we are getting behind efforts to help. Please support these wonderful initiatives raising desperately needed funds for the bush fire victims and to the organisers, thank you and I know Australia thanks you!!

Bringing flamenco to Queenstown

A New Zealander who's become renowned for his flamenco music is bringing the quintessentially Spanish genre to Queenstown for the first time.

Paul Bosauder grew up in Auckland and, inspired by his musical family, learned guitar and started playing in bands. In his mid-twenties, he travelled to Beirut and was working for a theatre production when he saw a gypsy guitarist play flamenco music.

"I was blown away," he says. "It is such an intimate and powerful form."

Paul says witnessing a live performance of flamenco inspired him to move to Spain to learn all he could about the art form. Flamenco is most commonly associated with the Andalusian Roma (gypsies) of southern Spain, but it is popular across the Mediterranean (and even in some unexpected locations – like Japan). Paul's now based in Seville, in southern Spain, where he composes and plays a mix of modern and traditional flamenco forms.

He's spent the past decade-and-a-bit studying and practicing, something Paul says is an ongoing process as flamenco is still a growing and changing art form that invites the guitarist to constantly strive to play better. He received Matricula de Honor (the highest mark possible) while completing his studies at ESMUC (Escuela Superior de Musica de Cataluña) and fine-tuned his craft with some of Spain's best flamenco artists, including maestro Rafael Cañizares.

"Rafael is an amazing teacher; he changed how I play and encouraged me to write my own compositions and learn how to create my own language in this big world of flamenco," says Paul.

Though Paul says he still "needs to grow", audiences around the world have been enthralled by his performances. Such is Paul's ability to honour the traditions of the music, listeners in Spain are often surprised when Paul speaks (in Spanish) with a Kiwi twang. Paul's last tour in New Zealand in 2018 sold out and his debut album Tierra y Mar topped the NZ Independent Album charts across all genres.

In February (9th, Sherwood Queenstown), he'll return to New Zealand, this time taking his project to Queenstown.

"It's a mix of traditional flamenco with more modern compositions. There'll be guitar, singing [Thais Hernandez], percussion [Lito Manez] and an award-winning dancer from Madrid [Triana].

"I'm really proud to get on stage with these people and I'm looking forward to bringing the project to Queenstown."

Tickets are available via Eventfinda.co.nz and Paul's website.

Wakatipu Darkroom Project's volunteer week

Interested in film photography? Get involved in the region's first community darkroom. After rescuing equipment from the old high school, the team finally have a location and a storage container in which to host it. All they need now is a group of volunteers to help them construct it between 13th and 17th January.

Anyone with experience and skills in plumbing, building and/or electrical work is especially welcomed, but they'd love to have a helping hand from anyone who is passionate and keen to help. If you can spare an hour, a few tools or some essential skills, get in contact via the Wakatipu Darkroom Project's Facebook page.

Bus STOP! Don't drive on by

To whoever operates and runs Orbus bus company, I have a gripe. Many times I have almost been at the bus stop around 20 metres and I flag you down sprinting but you guys don't bother stopping (knowing that I would be there before you actually stop the bus). Yes this is my fault, HOWEVER I'm always early, back home buses would wait at every stop until it's time to go. Not just Stanley and Frankton. Why do you drive past 6-7 minutes early without giving us a chance to get there? If my bus is supposed to be there at 32 minutes past I want it there at that time. Are you guys so desperate to get to the end of your line so you can sit on your phone or have a ciggie?

LOOOONG Holiday

It's now the 8th of January, your last editorial was dated 16th December. How can you call yourselves Lakes WEEKLY Bulletin??? More like the Lakes Monthly.

Your holidays are too long. Get back to work, like the rest of us.

Mr Greeny

Note from editor:

Happy New Year Mr. Greeny. We are only back this week because we are at the whim of the printers and the people operating them wanted to take a well deserved break (just like the rest of us). We had our last weekly edition for the year come out on the 23rd and then included a summer edition which came out on the 27th. We've squeezed in quite a lot before end of year. Printers are now back in action so it should be business as usual.

Over tourism

An Australian travel company have just released some statistics regarding over tourism around the world. Croatia comes in first with 14 tourists per local resident. Second is Iceland with 6 to 1. Hang on a minute! Queenstown has 34 tourists to every resident. That was according to the council's calculations last year, and it has to have increased since then. Does that mean that we officially have over tourism by a very big margin? If we get a bigger airport, just imagine, we could make that up to 50 to 1! Isn't being both the chairman of a large tourist company and a mayor of a town that is suffering from over tourism, a conflict of interest?

Conflict of interests?

AirB&B is killing this town and other towns and cities around the world. When your street becomes packed full of holiday homes and the steady stream of strangers have replaced your neighbours, you realise that you don't have a community anymore.

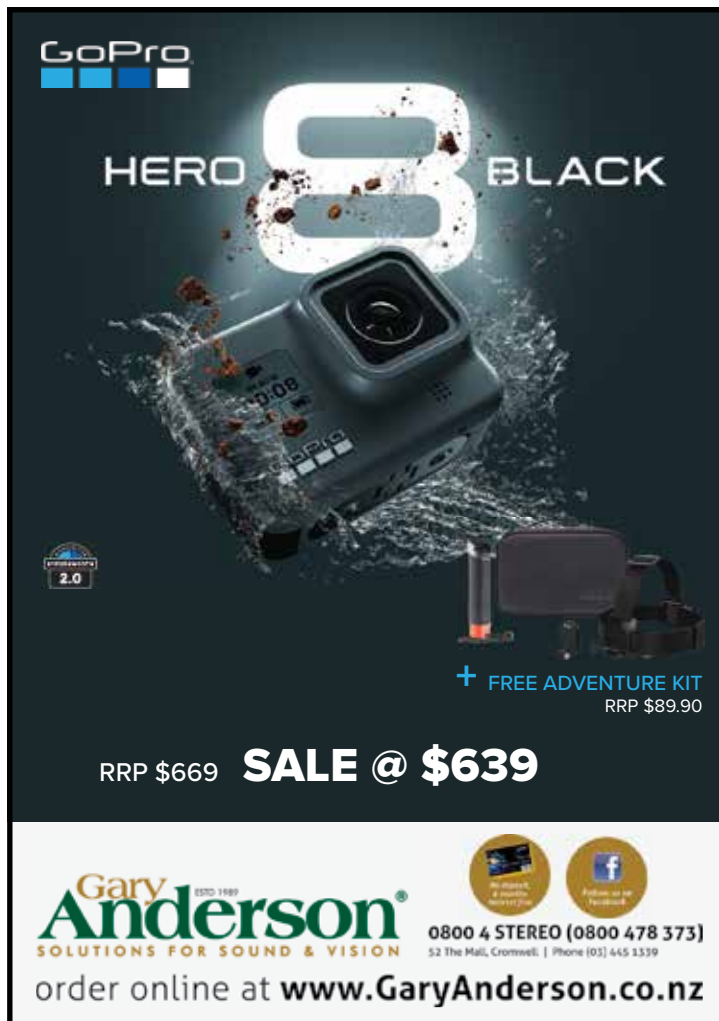

Some people should wear their mullets on the inside.

Queenstown summer... we're waiting.

A carpark lot must be the easiest cash grabbing business ever. All you need is a empty lot, a robot to take your money, and a Wilson's sign BOOM your a millionaire. I'm glad to hear about council cracking down dirty greedy grabbing Wilson on Park St.

Saw Hamish Walker pointing out a piece of toilet paper on national TV. It seems like a poor grab for publicity when the town is facing way bigger issues than just a couple of shits up the mountain.

Put a question to Queenstown's expert immigration team.
Email your questions to: askanexpert@laneneave.co.nz

Q. I have been an accredited employer for a few months now and I was recently contacted by Immigration New Zealand about an audit. Can they really do this?

A. The short answer is yes. Immigration New Zealand may audit an accredited employer at any time during their accreditation period to ensure they continue to meet the requirements of their accreditation. As part of this process, they can also conduct a site visit and request documentation to undertake their assessment. Information taken into account during an audit may include but is not limited to information supplied by the employer to INZ as part of the audit process, information held by INZ from a previous accreditation application, visa information for staff, information held by the Labour Inspectorate, site visit findings and publically available information.

If INZ is not satisfied the employer has continued to meet the requirements of their accreditation, or their obligations as an accredited employer, their accreditation may be revoked. Breaches uncovered during this process may also result in further compliance action. Miranda Spary is a tired, old, has been columnist that we feel sorry for. She used to write a weekly book column in the old Queenstown Times which was read more for the local gossip in it than the book part. She is quite lazy and very grateful if readers send in ideas about what's been happening locally on miranda@queenstown.co.nz

Happy 2020 everyone! I like the strength and certainty of the way 2020 sounds - fairly certain I won't be around for 5050 which sounds much more dithery and so-so. Everything about this year feels different - even our lawn which is always a parched brown thing that gets no water and requires no mowing in summer has turned into a luscious emerald shaggy fur. I love looking at it but it's encouraging our already large rabbit population to have way more sex than usual and there are literally dozens of tiny Lindt chocolate sized bunnies bouncing merrily around. Why can't someone dream up a profitable way to use them? I love my Allbird shoes - I wonder if I could launch an Allbunnies version?

I should suggest it for next year's Lake Hayes Show - what fun it was this year even though my tiny perfect potatoes didn't win a prize - the spud section is notoriously challenging. The big thrill was the Fashion in the Field. Josie Waters and Mal Price won first prize and this enormously glamorous couple's well hung horse, Fallacy, showed us his working parts - everyone in the crowd was transfixed.

Visitors to the pavilion got a chance to choose the winner of the brand new "People's Choice" cup - there were plenty of worthy candidates but the standout was Fineen Hingston's incredible 16th birthday cake that she made for herself - it's her birthday any minute and I don't know how she'll be able to bear cutting into it - it was two cakes, one a closed book with an old fashioned cover saying Happy Birthday and her own name, and the second one had the book open with a page of text written in icing. When I was her age, I think the full extent of my culinary skills was probably making toast. Well done, Fineen!

Huge congratulations too, to Jennifer Belmont who's finally become the newest Zealander. Friends in Wanaka keep grumbling at the injustice of the Wakatipu getting all the lovely Americans who create so many opportunities for lucky us - giving us huge farms, creating beautiful lodges and setting up amazing foundations and charitable trusts, while Wanaka's Americans seem better known for their less lovely doings. Jennifer's a total star and won a big award for her work in setting up the Wakatipu Community Foundation - she is definitely one American who deserves citizenship here. We are all richer for her being here.

So many exciting things in the pipeline - on Jan 18th at 7:30am at Yonder there's a yoga class fundraiser for the Oz Red Cross and Jane Burdon has artist Jo Bertini coming to do a workshop 11-13 February plus a talk and slideshow about her 3 month stay with the tribal Indians in India to raise money for the Cancer Society.

The Far Queue

When aspirations trip up the export/import balance

by Simon Davies, President Federated Farmers Otago

Of late I've heard several people, including a current Labour MP, question the need for our farmers to produce more food than New Zealand needs for its own consumption. It got me thinking...

When I was at high school, which was more than a couple of decades ago, one of my elective courses was economics. At the time, commerce and accountancy were popular choices for careers. I realised after a time, that this was probably not the case for me. However, the course did teach me a few home truths about business.

The big take home message was that to remain in business one can only spend as much as one earns. Ideally you want to earn more than you spend, so you can put some "savings" away for a rainy day.

Moving forward I have run several different businesses and a couple of farming operations, a food manufacturing and consulting business. I've found that basic tenet of economics and trade has very much run true.

Most of those businesses were successful, but one was not. The simple truth with the failed venture was that I was spending more than I was earning. As a result, I lost "half my shirt". This is economics 101.

If we were to scale this concept up a little, from a business to New Zealand as a country, the numbers are bigger, but the concept is the same. As a country if we don't want to lose half our shirt we need to ensure we are earning at least what we are spending, and ideally be able to put a little away for downturns and calamities sometime in the future.

Currently New Zealand earns money overseas by selling goods and services (exports) and selling New Zealand dollars to visitors to spend in this country (international tourism). In the same way New Zealand spends money buying goods and services from overseas (imports). For New Zealand to remain "in business" we need to ensure that our exports and international tourism is greater than our imports. If this is not the case, we must either earn (export) more or spend (import) less.

Pastoral agriculture is the largest export earner for New Zealand. Currently there is considerable pressure on the agricultural sector to reduce production. The consequence of this will be less exports and less dollars earned. To balance this New Zealand will either have to earn more from other exports or international tourism or spend less on imports (more directly controllable). Spending less means not buying so many cars, washing machines and iPhones, etc.

In very basic terms the annual production of one sheep is approx. 1.3 lambs, and 4kg of wool. Each lamb is worth about $165 and the wool is worth about $2/kg or $8 per sheep. So, for each 1,000 sheep removed from production NZ exports drop by about $222,500 every year – that's a whole lot of iPhones or imported pharmaceuticals. In terms of dairy, each cow returns about $2,700 of returns for milk solids to the farmer each year, never mind the value our processing companies get from adding value and never mind the value of her calves (a grown 300kg bull is worth about $1,860 in meat). You don't even need to get out your calculator to recognise how quickly export returns mount up at scale.

The recent carbon bill wants to see methane reductions of between 22 and 47%. For its submission on the Zero Carbon Bill Federated Farmers calculated, based on current tools available to farmers, that quantum of reduction represents a loss in processing factory gate income from the dairy and red meat industries by 2050 of $14 billion per annum and climbing. Keep in mind NZ exports 95% of the milk products we produce here, 94% of lamb products and 88% of beef and veal.

To ensure the country stays in business, New Zealand must reduce imports by the same amount. So, for those of you who change your iPhone (or any phone for that matter) regularly you need to remember that as our exports fall, the ability to import those phones for you to buy also falls.

Perhaps it is worth remembering that all actions result in additional actions and consequences. One consequence for our aspirational goal of zero carbon is the reduced availability/affordability of everyday items – from iPhones to pharmaceuticals and bananas to batteries.

Monthly Column

Just like that it's 2020 and a happy New Year to you all.

As Christmas has been and gone and we all start to get back in to a routine I hope you all enjoyed the festive season.

The holiday period always highlights the true destination Queenstown is, as people from near and far make their trip to our piece of paradise.

Our visitor numbers continue to grow, which is great for our town, but with it comes a need for more infrastructure.

While we have seen many improvements to our roading networks, there is still a lot more to be done.

In particular between Queenstown and Milford Sound, a road used daily by a large number of travellers.

We have seen many tragedies on this stretch of road, and while there have been safety improvements in rumble strips and barriers, more needs to be done.

The Government announced $1.4 billion in safety upgrades last year, which the South Island is receiving next to nothing of this funding.

The only project south of Ashburton on the list so far is between Dunedin and Port Chalmers.

The holiday period also highlights we have people who are struggling here in Queenstown, and while Happiness House and other organisations do a fantastic job the bigger issue is the cost-of-living.

I continue to advocate for zoning changes for the accommodation supplement here in Queenstown.

Shotover Country and Lakes Hayes Estate are in no way rural, and the rezoning would mean more money from rent for those who need it most.

A thumbs up to all of you though who donated to charity organisations before Christmas to help these very people.

I'm also lobbying for a toilet for the Ben Lomond Saddle.

More and more people are using the track daily.

In December I walked to the top of the summit to see how bad the problem is.

It was heart-wrenching seeing the amount of toilet paper strewn off the side of the track, but it also made it clear a toilet is needed.

The next day I took the trek again with a bag and pick-up stick and filled a couple of disposable bags with toilet paper.

Thirty-five thousand people use the track annually, doubling in the last four to five years.

We need a toilet on the saddle as soon as possible.

As we start to head in to the swing of things for 2020, I wish you all the best for this year.

For those of you finally getting a break after the silly season, enjoy – you deserve it.

For those of you still enjoying your holiday break – take care out there.

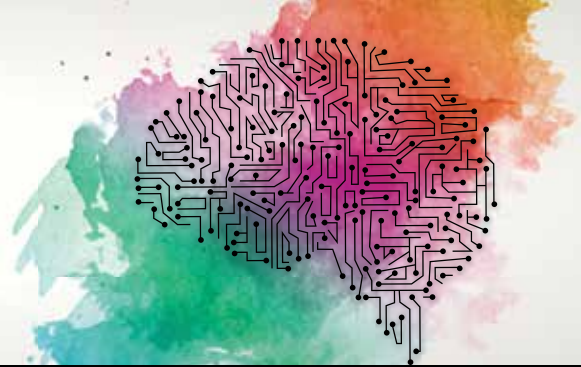

For the rest of you returning to work, I wish you all the best for 2020, and for those who haven't yet managed to put their feet up, make sure you do when you can.

NON-FICTION PICKS

The Weather Machine

Andrew Blum

(551.6 BLU – FTN)

With summer seemingly evading us here in Central Otago, Andrew Blum's intriguing book is a timely read.

The Weather Machine is about a miraculous-but-overlooked invention that helps us through our daily lives - and sometimes saves them - by allowing us to see into the future. When 'Superstorm' Sandy hit North America, weather scientists had predicted its arrival a full eight days beforehand, saving countless lives and astonishing us with their capability. In this gripping investigation, Andrew Blum takes us on a global journey to explain this awe-inspiring feat - from satellites circling the earth, to weather stations far out in the ocean, through some of the most ingenious minds and advanced algorithms at work today.

The Art of Burning Man

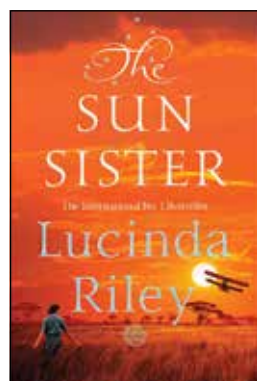

N.K. Guy

(700.979 GUY – FTN, QTN)

This beautiful coffee table book is full of mind-bending essays and images of the surreal art that graces the Black Rock Desert each year. Every summer, tens of thousands of people gather for Burning Man, which has been described as a spiritual adventure, an experiment in temporary community and radical self-reliance, a desert rave and even the premier countercultural event of our time. Burning Man has come a long way since a handful of friends gathered on a beach in San Francisco in 1986 and burned a three-metre effigy of a man.

It is this self-expression and the resulting artworks that is celebrated in The Art of Burning Man by writer and photographer N.K. Guy, who for the past 16 years has documented the event's happenings and art installations.

FICTION PICKS

The Sun Sister

Lucinda Riley

(F RIL – All libraries)

The Sun Sister is the sixth instalment in the multi-million selling epic series, The Seven Sisters, written by the No.1 bestselling author Lucinda Riley. Each novel in the seven book series tell the story of six very different D'Aplièse siblings, all adopted as babies by an elusive billionaire known to them as Pa Salt (the 7th sister is yet to be revealed). Each sister is in search of their hidden heritage using tantalising clues left to them after his mysterious death. The Sun Sister follows the fiery and fiercely proud sister, Electra, a 26 year old who seems to be the woman with everything until things start to unravel and she receives a letter from a stranger claiming to be her grandmother.

Blue Moon

Lee Child

(F BRO – QTN, ATWN, CROM, WKA)

Number 24 and the latest instalment in Lee Child's acclaimed suspense series, vigilante Jack Reacher is back for a new thrilling hero adventure story. After he rescues an elderly man on a bus from a would-be mugger, Reacher escorts the man home where he meets the man's wife and discovers the couple are deeply indebted to loan sharks due to high medical bills. Reacher comes to the aid of the elderly couple and confronts his most dangerous opponents yet. Readers will cheer as Reacher and his allies, a resourceful waitress and two fellow ex-military men that he meets on his travels, take the fight straight to the top of the criminal command chain. If you like a good nail-biter, this book is for you!

KID'S CORNER

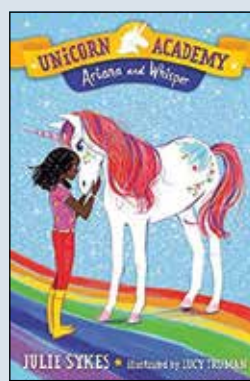

A Wishing-Chair Adventure: A Daring School Rescue

Enid Blyton

(CF BLY – QTN)

A brand new full-colour short story from Blyton's magical Wishing-Chair series - an excellent companion to the successful Magic Faraway Tree Adventure series and perfect for readers age 5+. Never in their wildest dreams, could Mollie and Peter have imagined something so wonderful as a magic Wishing-Chair that will fly you anywhere and grant your every wish! And so when their little black cat, Whiskers, goes missing, they know just who to call upon to help them find her!

Unicorn Academy #8: Ariana and Whisper

Julie Sykes

(CF SYK – FTN, ATWN)

From Frappuccinos to pool floats, unicorns are EVERYWHERE! Chapter book readers will flock to the latest of the Unicorn Academy series, where every girl gets a unicorn to call her own. Imagine a school where you meet your own unicorn and have amazing adventures together! Take an adventure to the Unicorn Academy on beautiful Unicorn Island. Ariana loves her unicorn, Whisper, but hopes that their differences don't get in the way of their bond. When all the animals start to leave the Verdant Forest, Ariana and Whisper will need to gather all their courage and work together to help protect their friends and bring the animals home.

THE LAKE HAYES A&P SHOW | Lake Hayes Pavillion, Lake Hayes, Saturday
Weirdly-shaped fruit and veg, llamas and Pimm's a-flowing in the President's Tent; all my favourite things were back at this year's Lake Hayes Show. Thousands of the community turned up to bask in a rare day of summer sun and some good old country culture. Whether you were there for the rides, the baking competition or the whitebait, there was something for everyone.

ALTRUSA'S ANNUAL CHARITY GOLF DAY | Kelvin Heights Golf Course, Kelvin Heights, Sunday

The amazing Altrusa ladies were at it again last weekend; this time raising money for St John's at their annual charity golf day. The charity golf day has been running since 1991, so far raising $160,000 for the community. This year's event saw 115 golfers raise $13,000 for St John's and $1500 for Wakatipu Junior Golf. David Johns of Arrowtown was the overall winner and Sarron Payne of Queenstown took out the ladies' competition.

Wine Tasting Party Fundraiser - Australia Bush Fires

by Candice Wine Chat

We will experience some shining examples of S. Australian wine, profits will be donated to support CFS, S. Australian Country Fire Service.

It has been heartbreaking to watch, to hear and to read the stories of destruction as a result of the Cudlee Creek fires just before Christmas and the rest of Australia on fire for the last couple of months. We are in awe of all the fire fighters and emergency services who have risked their lives and worked tirelessly during this tragedy.

Many wine grape growers have been affected by the fire, as well as apple and pear growers. Tilbrook Wines has been destroyed, Vinteloper Wines lost nearly everything, while Golding Wines, Barristers Block, Beal & Co, Simon Tolley Wines, New Era Vineyards and Emmeline Wines have also had significant damage. Other wineries that were affected include Anderson Hill, Artwine, Bird in Hand, Geoff Weaver, Henschke Wines, Nova Vita Wines, Petaluma, Tomich Wines and Turon Wines.

I spent two years in Australia before I settled in NZ. In 2017, I was invited to visit Australia by Wine Australia, an experience that I will cherish forever. I would like to do my little bit to support the Australian Country Fire Service, to keep battling the destructive blaze. Please join me!

We will be tasting a range of Australian wine.

Wine Tasting Party- a regular themed wine tasting party hosted by @CandiceWineChat, going through 5 wines and food match in a fun and relaxed environment. It doesn't matter how much you know about wine, as long as you like drinking them, like to learn a bit more about wine and meeting new people.

Date: Wednesday 15th January

Time: 6:30pm - 8:00pm

Venue: Sherwood - Production Office

Ticket price: $50 (plus booking fee)

Tickets available at Eventbrite

LEGEND OF THE WEEK

What's your role?

I'm a comedian and I like trolling people, I walk around dressed up like a devil in Queenstown and make lots of people smile. Always fun to get the whip out!
How long in QT and why did you choose to live here?
It feels like forever, I just can't afford a flight home so I will be stuck here for a bit longer.
Recommended must-do activity in and around QT?
Get up the Skyline Gondola, everyone at home will think you hiked all the way up, but you're way smarter than that.
What's your favorite place to eat?
Definitely Halo as it suits my personality.
What has been your best/ worst date?
Worst – this guy thought the earth was flat and 9/11 was a conspiracy - as if it couldn't get any worse, when the bill came he asked me to pay for the guacamole, "since I ate most of it".
Best – My best friend kidnapped me on my birthday and made me wear a funky suit which afterwards led to me doing a bungy twice off the ledge looking like superwoman!
Who is your inspiration?
Norma Jeane Mortenson aka Marilyn Monroe – because she was considered one of the most beautiful woman in the world. She embraced her curves, had lots of confidence and didn't care about being super skinny like society expects from girls nowadays. She was herself, what an inspiration!

Name: Speckster Bel

What's the most interesting thing you've read in this week?
Most toilets flush in E-flat.
What's on your bucket list?
Become a volunteer to help save the animals in Australia from the bushfires, but first see the answer to "how long in QT" and why it's not a reality just yet...
If you were an animal, what would you be?
Probably a fly... So I can be a fly on the wall in certain situations, cause knowledge is power!
What is the first thing you notice about a person?
The chia seeds in their teeth.
What is something you like to do that other people would probably consider "weird" if they knew?
I have 5 different Facebook accounts and use them all to support my viewpoint on Queenstown Trading posts...
Describe yourself in 5 words
Three, 69, damn she fine!
What have you never found the courage to do?
I wish I had the courage to ask out the guy that shears sheep at Walter Peak. He's so cute...
If you won a million dollars what would you spend it on?
Buy shares in Fergburger, I'll become a billionaire whilst I'm asleep! Best investment ever.
What is that one joke you can't tell without laughing?
How many Germans does it take to screw in a lightbulb? One, they're very efficient and not actually funny.
What's your best piece of advice?
Life is but a fleeting moment. Whatever it is, do it now!

Client Manager (or future Partner...?)

Affleck O'Meara are in rapid growth phase supporting a diverse client base covering everything from tourism to construction & more. The firm has four offices across the Southern Lakes / Central Otago area & is led by four inspirational & hands-on Partners with big plans for more talent to join up in 2020.

We have an exciting new opportunity for an experienced Accountant to join our team. This could be the next big opportunity for the right candidate who can understand the "bigger picture" & want to help their clients & team realise their potential. In turn, we aim to help you realise your own potential.

What would you be doing?

- Preparation of NZ Financial statements & tax returns for all entity types
- Managing workflow for Queenstown team
- Reviewing work submitted by junior staff
- Liaising with clients, handling their enquiries & requirements
- Management reporting for clients including forecasting
- Ad hoc project work including valuations, corporate restructuring etc

What skills do you need to apply?

- 5+ years' experience in NZ public practice
- Ability to prepare & interpret financials & tax positions for all types of entities & industries
- Sound understanding of the NZ tax system
- Ability to liaise well with staff and clients & share your wisdom in a straight forward, easy to understand manner
- Experience with preparing client management reports including budgets, cashflows etc.
- Experience in working with Xero, MS Office and other comparable programmes

This is not your average garden variety accounting environment. The firm believes in doing their absolute best for all clients, handsomely rewarding our superhero staff for their efforts and just being plain good guys. We set no limits as to how far you can progress with us. We will support & nurture you to enable you to achieve all your career goals – even to become Partner if that is your ultimate goal.

The firm's employees come from varied backgrounds and all staff have access to the senior managers. This gives everyone the opportunity to learn from the best and to be part of a fantastic culture with a healthy work/life balance which encourages our superheroes to stick around for a long time.

So, if you're ready to showcase your accounting powers and can demonstrate experience in the required areas, please send us a CV & covering letter to amanda@affleck.co.nz

Nomads HouseKeeping Manager

Do you want to work for a company that takes it's business seriously but at the same time encourages you to bring your unique personality to work with you? Do you want to work somewhere that will support you and challenge you to be better every day?

The word "Nomads" works quite well to describe our staff. We don't hire people who don't know what it's like to be always on the move. All of our team have traveled at one time or another and know exactly what it's like to be a backpacker. We use that to drive our company culture and understand our guests, which helps to make us the best we can, at what we do.

This is what is important to us;

- Taking what we do seriously but having fun while we do it
- Challenging ourselves to be better than the day before
- Making a guest's day – it's about them so if they end up happy we have your back
- Bringing your personality to work
- Aspiring to be world famous at everything that we do
- And did we mention having fun?

This is what is important to us;

- Responsible for rostering a full housekeeping department.
- Keep to strict cleaning deadlines
- Organising deep cleaning schedules while maintaining property and company standards
- Stocktaking and ordering within company budget
- Minimum 1 year housekeeping manager experience.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN THIS ROLE PLEASE EMAIL YOUR C.V AND COVER LETTER TO
emer@nomadsworld.com
